Limited income

90 unit project in works for village

For many years, officials of Antioch have recognized the need for limited income and especially senior citizen housing inside the village.

It looks like this need may be filled inside of the next couple of years since the site on Main St., near Williams Park, has not only been chosen and granted special uses by the village, but the project has been granted a Section 8 subsidy by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

According to Donna King, of Palmer, France, Green and King, the project's developers, final approval from the Illinois Housing Development Agency is all that is holding up construction.

The 90 unit complex will be open, first to handicapped persons who qualify under the financial requirements of HUD's Section 8 subsidy, then to small families who do likewise, followed by handicapped senior citizens and the remaining units will be open to senior citizens who meet the subsidy stipulations.

The complex will be made up of 10 three-bedroom apartments, intended mainly for the family housing; 35 two-bedroom suites and 45 one-bedroom units.

King says that they expect to go into construction immediately upon receiving the housing development agency's approval and the developers are in hopes that the first people who qualify will be able to move in within a year of the ground breaking.

Chamber talks about cooperating with village to improve retail district

Discussion at a sparsely attended general membership meeting of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, held on Friday, Feb. 13, at Weasel's Lounge, centered around the supposed coming of a shopping complex to the area and the improvements needed in the present downtown shopping district to keep it alive, with the outer mall syndrome imminently knocking on Antioch's retail door.

Mark McKinney, the new Chamber president, reported that, although the village had reportedly withdrawn their recom-

Good news in The News

Dollar Days

Antioch's annual Dollar Days will be this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the merchants will offer many stupendous sales.

This is really good news in these times of tight economy.

The special added attraction featured by the Chamber of Commerce's retail committee is the appearance of a mystery millionaire right in the shopping district on all three days.

Word has it that this eccentric philanthropist will be passing out some of his millions to the Dollar Days shoppers.

Arrests mess Antioch jail

Thursday, Feb. 5, following their usual procedures, because they have no lock-up facilities, the Lake Villa Police Dept. brought a Villa Park man, whom they had arrested for traffic violations, that included driving while intoxicated, to the Antioch police station to be booked and also receive a breath test.

The transference of Tim Haighs, 20, to Antioch, brought about a little mayhem aimed at an Antioch police officer and the Antioch jail cells, by Haighs and a companion, Michael Stancy, 18, Glendale Heights.

Haighs was stopped by the Lake Villa police when he failed to stop at a red light at the intersection of Rtes. 120 and 83.

After taking a sobriety test, Haighs was taken to Antioch where Stancy, who followed in Haigh's car, tried to force his way into the room where his friend was being booked.

Stancy was arrested for disorderly conduct after shoving a police officer, using abusive language and threatening him.

During the foray, Haighs was seen to drop a brown bottle behind a chair and upon

Editorial:

A textbook classic

The April 7 village election in Antioch will offer some aspects of interest to even the most amateur political observer.

If you like local politics, this year's mayoral race in Antioch is the type that textbooks are made of.

Although there is good interest in the race for the village board, the real action should center around the six candidates who are seeking election to the post of mayor.

Incumbent Mayor Mike Haley does not have a reputation as a weak or wishy-washy leader by any means. That's not the reason so many opponents are standing in line for a shot. It is, in fact, Haley's outspoken position on the need for a full-time mayor, opposition to the sale of drug-related paraphernalia, and village involvement in attracting new retail outlets to the community among others, that have caused the stir.

For the real political student, there are a variety of combinations to consider among the six mayoral candidates. How many candidates filed simply as a smoke screen for Haley, to draw votes and conquer and divide the opposition? How does Bob Wilton, who was a vocal supporter of Haley four years ago, fit into the picture in 1981? What makes Phil Burke tick and who is Henry Gillman? And who will the perennial behind-the-scenes powers and money men choose to back this time around? How will the real undercurrent of political power line up?

The potential is never-ending. Will the traditional Republican-Democratic organizational structure come into play? How about the township and the tax vote referendums. What part will those separate elections play in this come one, come all race for mayor?

It's something that will keep the coffee shops in Antioch buzzing for the next few months, but should provide interest for political observers throughout the area.

questioning, it was determined that the bottle contained a controlled substance.

The scene created by Stancy and the refusal of Haighs to be booked or given a breath test, besides using abusive language, ended with the two being put into jail cells next to each other.

As soon as they were incarcerated, the two men started to yell and tear the blankets and matresses in the cells apart.

They were then transferred to Lake County jail and in the process of the transfer, attempted to jump out of the transfer vehicle.

With the contents of the bottle being sent to the Illinois crime lab for specific analysis, Haig was charged with improper lane usage, possession of a controlled substance and DWI and Stancy for disorderly conduct.

mendation to use Revenue Bonds to entice a commercial complex, allegedly Jewel-Osco, to the northend of the village, the complex would definitely come into the Antioch area.

McKinney claimed that he had been told that, if the complex's developers decided against the location on North Ave. because of the opposition of residents of the area, the complex might be located somewhere on Rte. 173, between Rte 159 and Deep lake Rd.

It was the consensus of the discussion that, since it's coming seems to be inevitable, it would be smart to get in touch with the developer in question and find out exactly what sort of complex is in the working.

The fact that the addition of the complex could be an asset to the retail community as well as to the residents of the village was brought out.

Concern about competition giving way to a deeper concern about the possibility of some of the present merchants moving out of the downtown district to the area of the complex, causing the beginning of the "ghost downtown" syndrome that has ruined the main shopping arteries of most of the surrounding communities were outer-rim shopping malls have moved in.

Upgrading the present retail area seemed to be number one on the agenda for keeping and improving the present main shopping district.

More parking was considered to be the number one priority in the improvement plan.

McKinney said, "We do not have enough parking facilities during the peak shopping times."

Bill Patterson suggested that a committee be formed to work along with the village, with the idea of the merchants and the village, using some of the monies garnered from the tax revenues brought in by the merchants, along with other money, if necessary, to start the sinking of some money, for much needed improvements, into the downtown area.

Carole believes in 'Sweet Charity'

by CAROL RISK

A lot of the annual fund raising drives for charity are beginning in the Antioch area. The benefits of these charitable donations go to helping people who would, at best, receive only minimum help or else their problems would be ignored.

The people around Antioch contribute and work hard for many deserving causes, mental health, March of Dimes, Easter Seals, the Veterans, United Way and other equally worthy organizations.

Almost everyone will give to charity, but the majority of middle class average income people doubt that when they need help, it is going to be available for them and that it's going to be located in the safety and convenience of their own community.

APPARENTLY some thought was given to this segment of the population, because early in 1979, the United Way Charities decided to establish a Family Service Agency for counseling in Antioch, which they felt could serve the needs of the northwest Lake County area. This service is located at 876 Hillside in the same building as Chuck Cermak's American Life Insurance.

A small population such as in the Antioch area, is fortunate to have services like this available. In many other towns and villages, with much larger populations, people have to travel 25 to 30 miles to find professional guidance.

THIS IS A non-profit organization due to the funding from United Way and fees for counseling are determined on the basis of income.

The counseling service is in Antioch on Mondays, Tuesday afternoons and Saturday mornings.

N. Rusin is the head of staff for Antioch. An interesting fact is that the Family Service Agency for Counseling in Lake County was among the first to recognize the trend of battered women and working with other organizations, were instrumental in having centers for these women established in Lake County.

Rusin is available to speak to any individual, group or organization that wishes to hear more about these services. For information call 395-8722 or call D. Mitchell, who is director of this program for northern Lake County at his office in Waukegan, 662-4464.

Speaking of charities, the whole gang at Michael Warren's Century 21 office are putting their considerable powers of persuasion to work for the Easter Seal Society, which helps those with physical handicaps.

The donation to the charity is made by having an 8 by 10 family portrait taken for $7.95; $4 goes to Easter Seals and $3.95 for the picture which is taken in color.

This is a worthwhile donation with a nice side benefit.

You can arrange this by calling any of the people listed below at 395-5900: Tom Ward, Sharon Young, Cynthia Sufoina, Lucille Ellis, Peggy O'Neill, Janet Kosatka, Judith Kelly, Donna Quinn, Joan Dsida, Victor Rigoni, Lorraine Patterson, Kristine Zaleski, and Eva Hawryluk.

OUR TEENS drinking across the state line are receiving more and more notice. Warren Polley of Antioch High School, said he read the Antioch News and Antioch Reporter's coverage highlighting the problem. He stated that alcohol abuse and its consequences are taught as part of the health program, but he also agreed that kids do not associate alcoholism with their once a week flings.

Gary Allen, curriculum administrator, agrees that the health program doesn't fill the need for up to the minute reminders that kids seem to need, and that a more intense student-oriented campaign will be considered.

Allen mentioned that the kids have taken up the issue themselves in the high school paper, the "Tom Tom" and that several men from the Antioch Police Dept. have been in the school to talk with the students regarding problems resulting from drinking.

UNITED WAY

Volunteers who devoted time and effort this past year will be honored at the United Way of Lake County Annual Meeting and Awards Presentation. It will be held Tuesday, March 3, at the Holiday Inn, Gurnee, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

A computer analysis revealed that the square most likely to be landed on in the game "Monopoly" is Illinois Avenue, followed by Go, the B&O Railroad, and Free Parking.

Sequoits capture share of NWSC cage crown

The Antioch Sequoits varsity cage team clinched at least a tie for the conference title with defeats last weekend of Wauconda and Warren.

The Sequoits need only to win one of their three remaining conference games to clinch the title.

But the task may not be easy. The Sequoits face their two closest challengers, Lake Zurich and Grant, both sitting in second place with 7-3 records with Antioch presently at 11-0 in the conference and 15-5 overall.

"They have to win," said Sequoit coach Roger Andrews of the Friday contest at Lake Zurich. "We're in a relaxed situation. We'll be playing to have a good time. But if they lose, it's all over."

Saturday the Sequoits will play at Grant in what Andrews said should be a typical Antioch-Grant situation.

"They have two boys who are getting rather prolific at scoring, so we're going to have to try and control them. That's Moats and Rosing."

Last week, the Sequoits coasted at Wauconda and the entire squad saw floor time.

"They wanted to use kind of a stall and hold the ball," said Andrews. "We pressured them and ran up a 20-2 lead. From that point they started to play ball, but it was really just a matter of when the game would end," said Andrews.

Antioch won that game 57-38.

Saturday's contest with Warren was a close contest until the fourth quarter. "Both teams were kind of playing tic-tac-toe," said Andrews. "The game never really opened up, although we held a three or four point lead most of the way."

In the fourth quarter, Pete Weber hit two jumpers to stretch the lead to nine and Warren went to a man-to-man defense and the Sequoits outscored them 24-11.

Dee Maras was high scorer for Antioch with 21 against Warren and Pete Weber added 16. Both had 10 rebounds.

Against Wauconda, John Ploss led the scoring brigade with 21 and Maras had 13 and Weber 11.

Andrews also cited Dean Haviland for his excellent defensive work against Wauconda's top scorer Tom Zielinski, holding him to only six points.

AUGS has good season

The eighth grade boys basketball team's record of seven wins 11 losses doesn't nearly reflect their quality of play. No fewer than seven of the losses were decided in the final seconds.

Highlights of the season were a third place finish in the Oakcrest Holiday Tournament and a second place finish in their own Antioch Upper Grade Invitational Tournament.

The young men played hard all year and showed tremendous improvement during the season.

The roster was as follows: Joe Keim, Chris Tew, Chris Zeien, Joe Wagner, David Hart, Lonnie Grote, Mike Connoy, Bob Heath, John Kreplin, Kelly Geist, Jeff Peterson, Jim Bischoff, Cengiz Cavusoglu, and David Gedville.

The sixth-seventh grade girls basketball team had a rebuilding year with virtually no players with previous basketball experience.

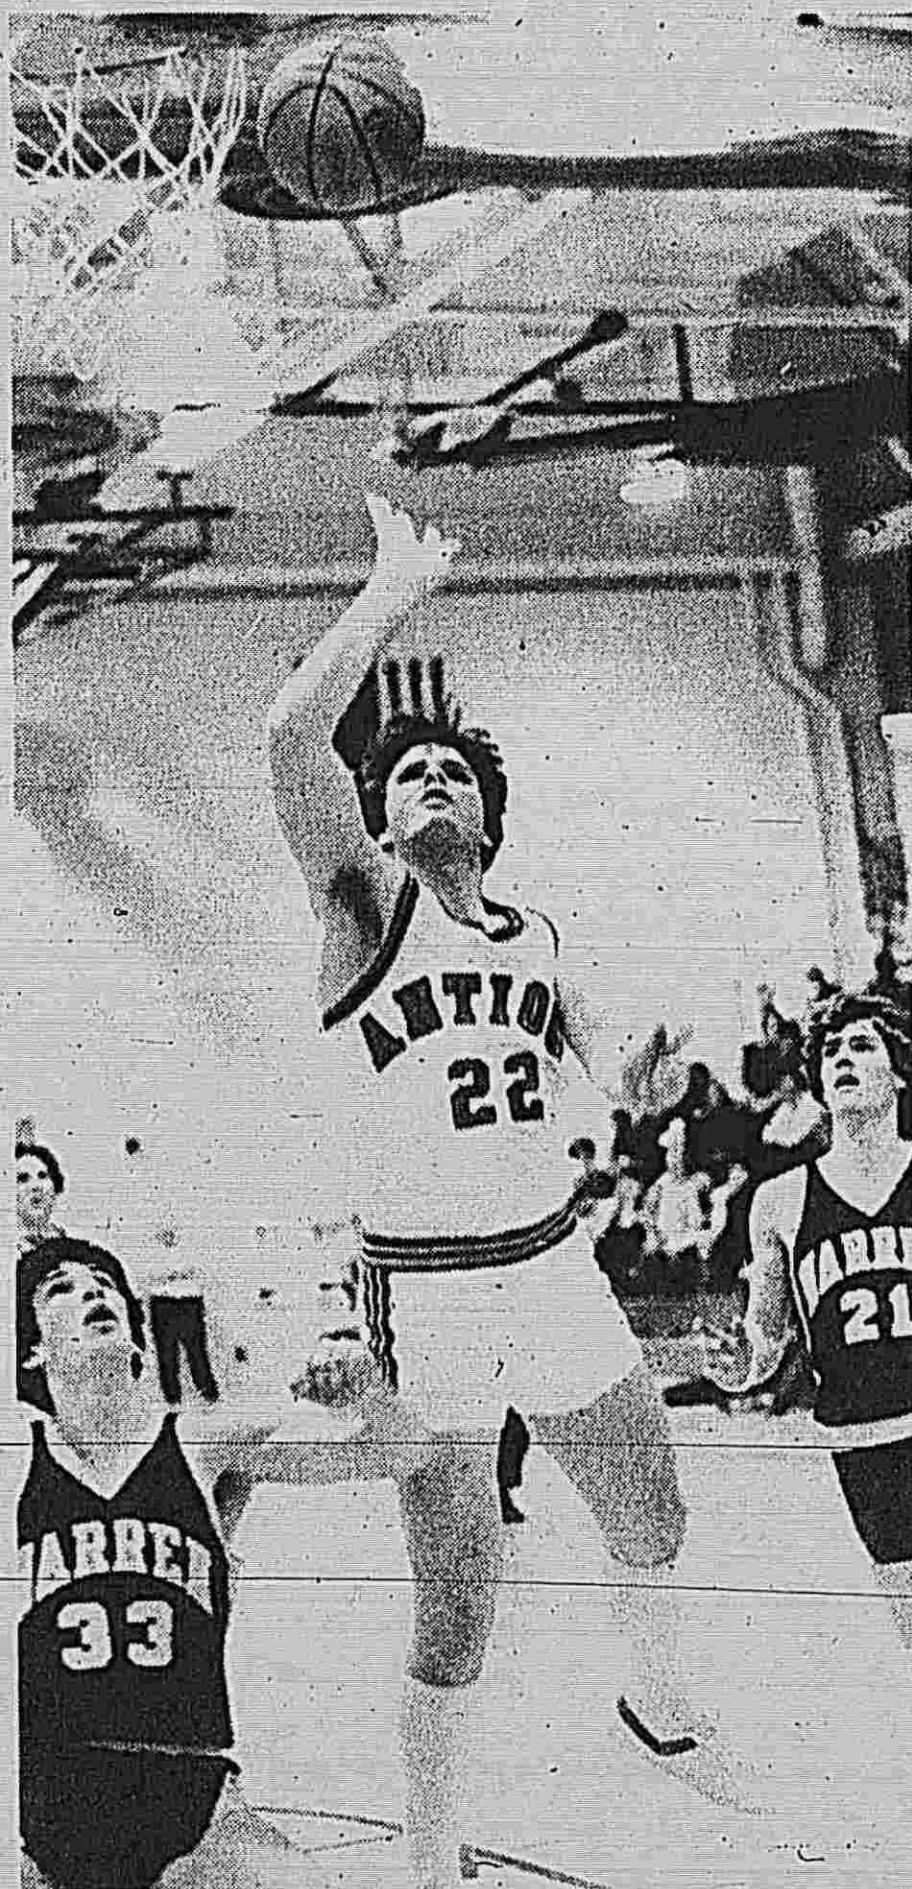

Despite this handicap the team showed great improvement each week especially on defense and teamwork. The team is to be congratulated on their fine effort. The eighth grade girls basketball team completed a successful season with a 11-4 overall record. Their conference record was 9-1 which was good enough to tie for the championship with Woodland, who Antioch defeated 40-29 earlier in the season.

For most of these girls, they have compiled a remarkable two year record of 26-4. All of these girls put forth a great effort and were very much dedicated.

Coach Rogowski wishes these fine players much success in their future athletic careers.

The seventh grade boys basketball team has finished its season. The team made marked improvement throughout most of the season despite its losing record.

The "B" squad has a current record of 3-0 with victories over Emmons, St. Peters, and Lake Villa.

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

Excuse please! Those pajama lovelies that were cheering at the Sequoit basketball game were members of the pon pon squad not the cheerleaders.

Those of you that would like to contact former Antioch resident Gertrude Eddy, she is at the Dania Nursing Home, Phippin Rd., Dania, Florida, 33004.

More apologies, that was Mike Gordy receiving the Distinguished Service Award from Bill Groeninger at the Jaycee event.

Goody, it's Dollar Days in Antioch this weekend and there will still be plenty of cold weather when I can wear all those fantastic winter clothing bargains that I intend to fill my closets with.

Whoops, looks like Bruce Jablonski had his fender bender in the wrong place. Having it in front of the Antioch News is as unobtrusive as hitting Jane Byrne's limosine while its in the middle of a State Street parade.

Well I see that the date that any of the six mayoral candidates can remove his name from April 7's ballot has come and gone and no one has dropped out, so it's still six for the seventh.

I hear that the mystery millionaire will be in Antioch this week, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. You can bet your sweet-patootie that old Annie Mae will find him if she has to search Antioch from Rte. 173 to North Ave. I'm sure that we were meant for each other.

NWSC Bowling Over

Friday, Jan. 30, was the end of the NWSC Bowling Season with Warren gaining the title of "Conference Champions" for the second straight year.

Warren and Grant both came into the tournament with an 11-1 record. The first round of the tournament found Grant in first place with a 2380 pin total and Warren in second place with their 2236.

Then in the second round, the Warren bowlers and fans went wild with cheers of encouragement which, no doubt, had a positive effect on the Blue Devil Bowlers who then performed with supreme excellence in the next three games.

They bowled an incredible 2599 for the second round (883, 922, 794).

Their 922 (184 team avg.) total for the fifth game has to go in the "Illinois State Book of Records" as being the highest team total ever achieved in a game.

When I think about it Every cloud has white lining

by GLORIA DAVIS

Now that the heavy winter snows have finally hit us, all of us are apt to moan and groan about the myriad of problems brought about by those piles of lovely white flakes.

Granted there's the shoveling, the reshoveling after the snowplow passes and the piling on of tons of clothing that has to be peeled off, layer by layer as the car heater and the winter sun stream into the car.

But the thing that bothers me the most, is the slipping and sliding that my car tends to do on icy roads, of course its that stupid car, not the driver.

I wish I hadn't said that, I can already hear the loud laughter emanating from my friends who nick-named me "Crash Davis" years back.

And I'm sure that those pains all over my body, contrary to the "old age" remarks made by other smart alecks, are caused by muscle constrictions that are the result of gripping the wheel in sheer terror.

But since that traitorous little groundhog couldn't remember the words to "Me and My Shadow" again this month, we might as well look on the bright side.

At least when you're wearing two pairs of long underwear, three sweaters and a down filled jacket, everyone attributes your gigantic size to sensible dressing and not to those extra pounds put on by all that hot chocolate and homemade popcorn devoured during the cozy winter nights.

When the roads are bad, you can arrive late for an appointment and regardless of the fact that you're really just running late, you can always come up with a harrowing tale of sliding down a bridge sideways, narrowly missing a semi, hitting a ditch and bouncing over.

The weather also allows you to put many distasteful tasks off until spring. Take for instance the washing of the entrance hall floor which we know would just be foolish, as long as there's snow and slush outside begging to be tracked in.

And remember though getting cold isn't too much fun, unless done while skiing, taboggoning, snowmobiling or tubing, but getting warm can be a blast.

January dues needed for AARP benefits

Despite the inclement weather on Tuesday, Feb. 10, 85 members of the Antioch Chapter 387 of AARP attended the planned Valentine Party. A hundred and fifty-one members had made reservations. The extra boxed chicken lunches were either sent home with a friend who had the paid ticket or otherwise sold to the members present. Pies of all kinds preceded the dinner, when the chicken hadn't arrived by noon. A short business meeting was held before the chicken dinners arrived at 1:30 p.m.

BLANCHE BABIK announced that 190 members had paid their dues for 1981. Dues are payable in January. For the members who have moved and are not receiving their AARP Modern Maturity Magazine or AARP News Bulletin, they must send the address label from the paper or magazine with their account number to the editor of the publications. Be sure and tell them when your membership expires and tell them what chapter you are a member of. Also notify your local membership chairlady of your change of address.

Dolly Spiering, president, notified the members that they would not be eligible for reduced lunches or trips if their dues were not paid. You must show your National Organization AARP membership card to join the local chapter.

GLEN PETERSON and John Babik sold tickets for the March 10, St. Patrick's Day party. Tickets will still be available at the Feb. 24 meeting. If you are unable to attend that meeting, perhaps a friend can purchase your ticket.

Esther Aiani announced that a member who wished to remain anonymous donated $20 to the chapter.

Dolly Spiering asked for a chairman for the Salvation Army Donut Day on June 5. Contact her if you are interested in being chairman.

"Happy Birthday" and "Happy Anniversary" was sung to the members celebrating in February. Mr. and Mrs. John Lahey were the only February anniversary celebrants. They will be married 30 years this month.

AARP MEMBERS have the opportunity not only to become involved in the 1981 White House Conference on Aging which will culminate in Washington, D.C. at the end of the year, but to participate in six AARP National Issue Forums to be held throughout the country.

The forums are designed to help the older persons cope with inflation. Forum sessions will focus on health care, money and taxes, energy costs and conservation, housing, food and nutrition, and legislation and advocacy. These topics were selected by the NRTA-AARP National Conferences Advisory Committee and approved by the AARP board of directors as key areas of concern for older Americans.

The purpose of the two and a half day Issue Forums is to elicit the advice of experts in the field, and to allow the membership, other persons and local and state elected officials to exchange ideas and offer practical advice.

The forums are open to all interested persons and there is no registration fee. A busload of interested members and friends of the Antioch Chapter will be going to Milwaukee on April 23, to attend the forum. Watch this column for more information.

IRMA BROADBENT, Blanche Babik and Bernice Weiss made 150 large white heart placemats decorated with two small red and blue hearts on them. Arlene Braumbaugh made 150 red, white and blue hearts that were pasted together with a folded white arrow in the center. Typewritten on the arrow were the words "An American Valentine. I've made a valentine for you. I've made it red and white and blue — The colors of our country's flag. And write your name upon the tag."

Games were played with the winner receiving a dozen country fresh eggs. Twenty dozen were awarded.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 24 at the new Antioch Area Senior Center, 817 Holbek Dr., Antioch. All meetings are held there since they no longer meet at St. Peter's Catholic Church. Members having birthdays in February will not have to pay for their refreshments at this meeting, since they had paid for their lunches at the last meeting.

LOCAL PRIVATE EYES — Eve and David Gehrs, who have just taken over the Conway Detective Agency, are the local Hart to Hart.

Detective duo 'delivers'

BY GLORIA DAVIS

Has Antioch recently gained its own Nick and Nora Charles, Pam and Jerry North, or the local version of Hart to Hart?

If Eve and Dave Gehrs live their lives anywhere near the way they describe it, it seems that private excitement, ala James Rockford has come to town.

According to the masculine side of the Gehrs team, who recently purchased the Conway Detective Agency, in town, he was trained and worked eight years with Ernie Rizzo, the man who is reputed to be rated by some as the "World's number one private detective."

Gehrs is a former army helicopter pilot who served in Viet Nam, and a holder of a third degree black belt in karate.

Almost 90 percent of their work borders on the unsavory, since it involves the proving of whether or not a mate is cheating.

Stealing children and turning them over to the parent who has legal custody of them, is another type of case they work on frequently.

Although, Gehrs admits that this mate surveillance sometimes proves to be a "raunchy" situation, he happily cites the times that they have proved that a mate, who was thought to be cheating was in fact playing it straight.

The subject of the uncovering of industrial espionage brings stories of going undercover and working in the client's company, actually doing some work performance in the position along with the investigation.

"I have been a carpenter, a plumber, an electrician and even an art director," says Gehrs.

Following the trail of a motorcycle whose payments were in arrears, took the Gehrs to the lion's den, a motorcycle hangout.

When asked if she was scared while she was being surrounded by the unsavory cyclists, Eve answers, "I sure was."

When asked if he had ever been hurt physically while on the job, Gehrs said that the worst accident suffered of late was when his wife crashed the car, in which he was a passenger, sending him to the hospital with broken ribs.

He has also fallen three floors when caught tapping a telephone, fallen out of a boat while taking a picture for evidence and been beaten up badly by a person he was following.

"He must have had a sixth degree black belt, I never knew what hit me," says Gehrs.

Eve was trained by her husband, who claims to have police training, and some criminal law.

He also tells how they have crashed company parties, broken up a wealthy wife swapping ring and even worked on the famous Brach heiress case.

"We'll do whatever is necessary to solve the case," is their motto and if the 90 percent success level washes, they must really operate that way.

Weatherproof energy.

In winter. For the past several winters, many parts of the country have experienced energy shortages. The oil and coal needed to make electricity couldn't be delivered. Rivers were frozen. Stockpiled coal was frozen solid. The machinery to move coal was frozen.

As fuel ran low, electricity had to be rationed. Plants and schools were closed. People were laid off. Shivering became the national pastime. But not in northern Illinois.

Commonwealth Edison electricity is made mostly from abundant coal and uranium. That helps to conserve the scarce fuels oil and natural gas.

It wasn't luck that got us through those winters; it was nuclear power. Over 40% of the electricity we make comes from nuclear fuel. Because no matter how much it snows or how cold it gets, nuclear fuel is available—weatherproof. Enough uranium to provide all the electricity we need for an Illinois winter can be stored in a one car garage.

In summer. Nuclear power gives us the reliability we need to respond to summer peak demands without brownouts. In the last decade, when growth of air conditioning helped increase demand for electricity more than 35%, Edison's nuclear stations had an unbroken record of summer availability.

And nuclear power is today's great energy bargain. It costs about a penny and a half a kilowatt hour less than coal and over four cents less than oil. If we'd replaced our uranium with low sulphur western coal in 1980, it would have cost an extra $460,000,000 in fuel expense. Using oil or gas instead of uranium would have driven the cost up to almost 1.5 billion dollars. Instead, the nuclear fuel we used, the equivalent of 46,000,000 barrels of oil, saved over 10% on your electric bill.

With our strong nuclear capability, we're ready for the weather. Let it snow. Let it sizzle.

Your Guide to Fine Dining and Excellent Entertainment

THE Entertainer

Stamm hits bullseye as 'Bullshot Crummond'

by GREG SMITH

Bruce Stamm, Round Lake, has found a part well suited for his talents in PM&L's production of "Bullshot Crummond". Playing the part of the title character, Capt. Hugh "Bullshot" Crummond, Stamm portrays the personality of the eccentric English Detective with the right amount of exaggeration required to entertain audiences that like to see stage parody.

Bullshot Crummond provides PM&L actors and actresses as well as the audience with the type of fun that is normally associated with parody. The more outrageous the plot, the acting and the props; the more enjoyment for the aficionados of theatrical farce.

The play is about a scientist with a secret formula to make diamonds who is kidnapped by the bad guys and how a bumbling detective thwarts the bad guys' evil plots.

Though Stamm as Capt. Hugh "Bullshot" Crummond does not immediately fall into character in his first appearance on stage, he quickly warms up to the part. Minus the first appearance on stage, Stamm has the audience following his character and anticipating the next outlandish statement or action he is about to make throughout the production.

The play is the type that is fun for actors and actresses to do. Parody requires a certain personality to be done right and the cast at PM&L has the personnel to make a farce come off well.

The other members of the cast appeared to have the mood of what a good farce needs to entertain. Don Beveroth as Otto Von Brunno, Gloria Stewart as Lenya Von Brunno, Kris Ann Miller as Miss Rosemary Fenton and Keith Boehm as all other characters keep the audience laughing and bounce their lines and actions well off the leading character and each other.

Beveroth, plays the typical bad guy that is found in "B" detective movies involving foreign spies in his role as Otto Von Brunno, the second most dangerous man in the world. He has the accent and the fiendish laugh as well as the grandiose stage movements required for the part.

Beveroth shows his true versatility when he plays two characters simultaneously on stage. One member of the audience said during the 15 minute break between acts that they had never seen Beveroth move so quickly as when he played the part of a henchman about to be hired to kill Crummond and Von Brunno who is trying to get rid of Crummond.

Complimenting Beveroth is Gloria Stewart who plays Lenya Von Brunno, Von Brunno's mistress. The two might remind some members of the audience of the two arch villains from a Saturday morning cartoon; Boris Badenough and Natasha. The characters are the same and the spoof of "B" detective movies is comparable.

Stewart and Beveroth make a good evil pair that is trying to do bad to the world in general.

Playing the part of the shy sweet young Miss Rosemary Fenton is Kris Ann Miller. Miller plays the role of the loyal, but naive daughter of a British scientist who has found a way to make diamonds. Her shrieking giggle and the way she worships Crummond parodies well in the play.

Then there was Keith Boehm, who it is safe to say would be sorely missed if he had not been in the play. Though he didn't do the quick change of Beveroth and play two characters at a time on the stage, he did appear in nearly every scene.

Boehm played an old scientist, a waiter who is abused by a suspicious Crummond, a series of Von Brunno's henchmen who engage in fights with Crummond and generally kept the play going. It might also be added, that Boehm is currently playing in Carmel High School's production of Fiddler on the Roof.

How a young man can keep so many characters straight is amazing. And his parts on the stage where he played parts where he had to stage a fight with Crummond were impressive. The tussles with Crummond and the acting while he was being tortured by the Von Brunnos in his various parts were good.

In short the somewhat bawdy play is worth seeing if you are looking for a hour or more of laughs. It is also a chance to see some of the area's favorite actors in a play that must be as much fun to be in as it is to watch.

Bullshot Crummond will be playing at PM&L in Antioch Feb. 20, 21, 22, 27 and 28. Plays will be 8:30 p.m. and there will be a Sunday matinee at 2:30 p.m.

Jende captivates in Andres' 'Yum Yum'

Although the title of the play currently running at Andre's Steak House's dinner theater sounds like it either is a comic version of "Madam Butterfly," or is a description of the theater's menu, "Under the Yum Yum Tree" is neither.

But it is a delightfully funny, somewhat outspoken, comedy about a lecherous landlord, and a naive young girl who wants to live platonically with her poor frustrated boyfriend in a compatibility experiment, despite the protective aunt who insists on hanging around.

Lynn Kessie does very well in her portrayal of the attractive aunt who has had an affair with Hogan, the landlord, and remains on the scene to supposedly protect the niece she has sublet her apartment to.

Her reactions are in reality that of any female, trying to stop her former paramour from getting involved with another woman.

Brian Blanchard, Lake Zurich, fits the part of the frustrated boyfriend, offering a good balance of staid stuffiness, opposite the landlord Hogan's, outrageousness.

But it's the glowing, vivacious, innocent vitality of Michele Jende of McHenry, in the part of the niece, that steals the show, along with Ron Ferraro's amusing interpretation of "the dirty young man."

Ferraro's version of Hogan, comes off as a cross between Jack Lemon, who played the part in the movie, and Peter Falk's Columbo.

The frustration and anger of Blanchard, Ferraro's ridiculous antics and the fact that Jende's naive exuberance completely captivates the audience every minute she is on stage, makes for an enjoyable evening.

Barb Miller, does her usual competent job of directing this latest offering of the American Repertory Theater Systems, that runs through March 29.

Years ago horns and bells were sounded at weddings not as celebration, but to drive away evil spirits.
